

-22-

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In order to ensure secure communication over a wireless network, such as a network according to the 802.11 standard, the terminals in the network exchange information ciphered by means of at least one key. The key is generated independently at each terminal by means of the group key agreement type.